- Ample supply of easy-to-access fuel for your fireplace, oven or outdoor cooking setup
- Delivered right to your door with minimal effort on your part vs. having to pick up the load yourself
- Arrives already cut and split, saving you from having to do any extra work
- Reduces transportation costs associated with smaller orders since it won't require multiple trips
- Save time and money with one bulk order of firewood compared to buying smaller bundles of wood

KILN-DRIED > SEASONED

Leaving oak logs outside to air-dry for 12+ months (the process of seasoning) does not prevent some rot from setting in - resulting in mold growth, fungi colonies or even pest infestations.

Axe & Kindle kiln-dries all of its oak firewood. This means we remove moisture by using a super-sized kiln and fan to heat and dry the logs all at once. The controlled environment within the kiln makes it possible to get the wood below 20% moisture every time. Your fire will light easier and burn longer, brighter and with less smoke than a fire using seasoned wood.

OUR PROCESS

We select only top-quality oak that's perfect for your campfire or fireplace. Our local suppliers ensure that each piece is sourced fresh and then goes through a rigorous kiln-drying process - so it's guaranteed not to have started decomposing yet, retaining its hard-dense composition.
