THE NATURAL CHOICE FOR LIVE FIRE CHEFS

NOKO Executive Chef & Partner, Dung "Junior" Vo crafts amazing Asian-inspired dishes for the East Nashville restaurant with the aim to perfect the balance of new and old techniques in wood fire cooking.

"Keeping things very simple is the key. Let the flavor of the wood shine. Axe & Kindle's wood is consistently dry. It's reliable, you know what it's going to do when it's going to do it -- a lot of love is put into it." – Chef "Junior" Vo

CUSTOMER REVIEWS

★★★★★

I just received my first delivery of Axe and Kindle firewood and could not be more pleased! The firewood was clean and cut almost square on every piece. The pallet was completely and securely stretch wrapped from top to bottom. I now have a new firewood company for all of my firewood needs from here on. Thanks for a great job and product!

SEASONED VS. KILN-DRIED

Seasoned firewood can be frustrating to light, make unwanted smoke, or quickly flame out because of dampness. It often includes insects and mold as the wood naturally dries out over time. It takes up 8-12 months for firewood to fully season.

Axe & Kindle's kiln-dried firewood burns hotter, longer, and less smoky because moisture, insects, and disease have been eliminated through the heat and dehydration process that kiln-drying is known for.

Each piece of firewood sold by Axe & Kindle experiences 62 hours in a kiln and is heated to 160 degrees. The end result is a fire-ready product with less than 18% humidity, making it the perfect firewood for cooking, heating, or just snuggling by the fire.

Axe & Kindle's kiln-drying process meets regulatory requirements and is TN-Certified fuel for your fire!
